SCHOOL IMPROVEMENT PLAN

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School

Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School, located in Goulds, Florida serves a school population of 776 students. The school population reflects the multiethnic nature of the community. Approximately 33 percent of the school population is enrolled in the visual and performing arts and broadcasting magnets. Eighty-eight percent of the student body qualify for free or reduced priced meals. The School Performance Excellence Plan concept described below was developed as a result of the analysis and evaluation of pertinent data, including the 2005-2006 Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test (FCAT), FCAT Writing Test, District assessments and the Organizational Performance Improvement Snapshot survey. The Educational Excellence School Advisory Council also made recommendations.

Given instruction based on the Sunshine State Standards, 51 percent of the students in grades six through eight will score a level three or higher on the 2007 FCAT Reading test.

Given instruction based on the Sunshine State Standards, 51 percent of the African American students in grades six through eight will score a level three or higher on the 2007 FCAT Reading Test.

Given instruction based on the Sunshine State Standards, 51 percent of the Hispanic students in grades six through eight will score a level three or higher on the 2007 FCAT Reading Test.

Given instruction based on the Sunshine State Standards, 51 percent of the Economically Disadvantaged students in grades six through eight will score a level three or higher on the 2007 FCAT Reading Test.

Given instruction based on the Sunshine State Standards, 51 percent Students With Disabilities in grades six through eight will score a level three or higher on the 2007 FCAT Reading Test.

Given instruction based on the Sunshine State Standards, 56 percent of the students in grades six through eight will score a level three or higher on the 2007 FCAT Mathematics test.

Given instruction based on the Sunshine State Standards, 56 percent of the Economically Disadvantaged students in grades six through eight score a level three or higher on the 2007 FCAT Mathematics Test.

Given instruction based on the Sunshine State Standards, 56 percent of the Students With Disabilities in grades six through eight will score a level three or higher on the 2007 FCAT Mathematics Test.

Given instruction based on the Sunshine State Standards, students in grade eight will increase their writing skills as evidenced by 84 percent of the students scoring 3.5 or higher on the 2007 administration of the FCAT Writing Test.

Given instruction based on the Sunshine State Standards, students in grade eight will increase their science skills as evidenced by 50 percent of the students scoring level 3 or higher on the 2007 administration of the FCAT Science Test.

During the 2006-2007 school year, parental involvement will increase by ten percent as compared to 2005-2006 as evidenced by attendance records from EESAC rosters, Title I rosters, magnet parent council rosters, volunteer logs and membership in the PTSA.

Given the school-wide initiative to foster an atmosphere of discipline and safety the school's overall outdoor suspension rate will decrease by five percent for the 2006-2007 school year when comparing data from MDCPS suspension report for 2005-2006 to the 2006-2007.

Given the school-wide initiative of educational technology, emphasis will be placed on upgrading the wiring, computers, hardware and software at the school site.

Given instruction based on the Sunshine State Standards students in grades six through eight will improve their physical fitness as evidenced by a three percent increase on the 2007 administration of the Miami-Dade County Public Schools Fitnessgram; as compared to data from the 2005-2006 MDCPS Fitnessgram.

Given the need to include the arts in academic areas, magnet enrollment in the visual and performing arts will increase by 10 percent when comparing enrollment data from the 2005-2006 school year to the 2006-2007 school year.

Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School will increase its ranking on the State of Florida Return On Investment index publication based upon publications of next statement.

Overall results of the Organizational Performance Improvement Snapshot Survey (O.P.I.) indicate that the faculty and staff of Arthur & Polly Mays are moving in a positive direction. Results of the 2006 O.P.I. showed that the faculty and staff were concerned with process management and strategic planning, both ranking 3.9 out of five points. Data revealed that additional efforts must be initiated by the leadership team to address these concerns. Efforts to improve the previously mentioned categories have been addressed in the formulation of the 2006-2007 School Improvement Plan.

MISSION

Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School and its multicultural community will provide quality-learning experiences that encourage educational excellence, foster individual student and faculty growth, and prepare students and staff for advancement in our world of technology.

CORE VALUES

Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School is dedicated to academic excellence, quality service, parent and student relationships, and quality communication between the school and the community that it serves.

School Demographics

Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School is located on thirteen acres in South-Miami Dade County at 11700 SW 216 Street. Three buildings house 52 classrooms including two computer labs. A State of the Art Media Center that houses the broadcasting magnet was constructed three years ago. A new administrative office complex was also constructed in 2002. This sixty-plus-year-old building has been rewired to provide Internet service for all classrooms. During the 2005-2006 school year, the building was painted to promote a visually and environmentally safe atmosphere for the students and community.

Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School endeavors to become more involved with the community through regularly scheduled parent workshops and inservices. An Open House at the school site is scheduled twice a year for parents to meet teachers.

Parent/teacher meetings are held every Friday morning at 8:25. This forum is for parents to communicate with classroom teachers, counselors and administrators any and all concerns regarding their child's progress.

The EESAC (Education Excellence School Advisory Council) acts as a link to the community through financial assistance for various projects to improve student achievement. Meetings are held monthly providing a valuable link between parents and the school. Meeting times for the EESAC are staggered to provide more parents with an opportunity to attend.

The majority of parents are employed in middle to low income jobs. Family lives are enhanced through state assistance programs and services. The school addresses parental needs by providing parent nights, an adolescence program and community school classes. The community school enrolls over 600 students per year in a variety of classes including basic literacy, college courses, floral arrangement, and computer literacy. The community school also runs a summer program for school children ranging in age from 6-12 years old.

Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School, a Title I site, provides a Visual and Performing Arts and Broadcasting Magnet as well as a standard academic program utilizing a modified block schedule for students in sixth through eighth grade.

The total population of Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School for the 2006-2007 school year is 766.

The demographic profile: 74 percent standard curriculum, 16 percent ESE, six percent LEP, three percent gifted, and 33 percent participate in the visual and performing arts or broadcasting magnet.

The school population reflects the multiethnic nature of the community. The ethnic breakdown: four percent white, 40 percent Hispanic, 53 percent African American, 1.4 percent multi-racial and one percent Asian.

The focus of instruction has been on reading, mathematics and writing programs. Current data reveals that the majority of students at Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School are performing below grade level in these areas. Although some progress was made during the 2005-2006 school year, FCAT results indicate that additional strategies must be implemented for the 2006-2007 school year in order to raise student achievement.

Mays is a participant in the Title I program which supplies individualized tutoring assisted by full-time paraprofessionals for the America Reads Program. The program is geared toward the remediation of reading students performing in the lower 25 percentile as evidenced by data compiled from the 2005-2006 FCAT. Specialized professional development activities are provided for paraprofessionals to prepare them to provide one-on-one tutoring. Level 1 and level 2 students have been placed in intensive and intensive plus reading classes.

Tutoring in mathematics, science, writing and reading is provided for all students by highly qualified teachers after school. Mays offers a voluntary computer generated tutorial program open to all students which encompasses FCAT Explorer and Riverdeep. Saturday FCAT camp is utilized to provide students intensive remediation prior to testing. Additionally, the community school offers tutoring and social activities for students.

The instructional personnel include two National Board certified teachers, 45 regular/E.S.E. certified teachers, one reading coach, one media specialist, a part time occupational specialist, a community involvement specialist representing Title I, a trust counselor, two grade level counselors and one behavior management teacher (BMT). Additionally, a part time psychologist, a part time clinician and a full time program specialist have been provided to address student needs.

All departmental lesson plans are based on grade level Competency Based Curriculum and Sunshine State Standards according to the District's scope and sequence and are utilized across the curriculum. This type of planning gives uniformity to instruction for major subject areas across all grade levels. These plans include Sunshine State standards activities for each day's lesson. Students are encouraged to take advanced and gifted classes. Inclusion classes utilizing the co-teaching and consultative models are provided for ESE students across the curriculum.

Computer programs including FCAT Explorer, Riverdeep, Academy of Reading, Read 180 and the Internet are used to enhance classroom instruction and provide students with skills necessary to compete within our technological world. The school is equipped with two computer labs. Each classroom has one or more computers for teacher and student use.

All students at Mays have an opportunity to participate in clubs including dance, drama, chess, math, science, Future Business Leaders of America, Future Teachers of America, Chamber of Commerce, Student Council, Colorguard/flag team, Cheerleading, Weather, Environmental and Recycling. Additionally, all students can participate in activities including tennis, volleyball, basketball, track and field and cross country.

Enrollment at Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School has declined over the past six years. Reasons for this decline include; other magnet schools including Ammons, Southwood, Cutler Ridge, Homestead Middle School; and charter schools. Boundary issues have severely affected magnet recruitment efforts. In order for the magnet program to recover, emphasis must be placed on realigning school boundaries.

School Foundation

Leadership:

Utilizing data collected from the Organizational Performance Improvement Snapshot survey stakeholders feel that the leadership at Mays Middle School is strong. All statements within the leadership component averaged at least a 3.8 out of five score. The lowest numerical average was given in conjunction with the statement relating to the leadership ranking (3.8) indicating that school personnel would like the leadership team to ask them what they think about issues affecting the school.

District Strategic Planning Alignment:

Items addressed in strategic planning indicate that the teachers/staff at Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School understand the importance of planning and implementing goals and objectives designed to achieve academic excellence. All statements within strategic planning averaged at least a 3.9 out of five score. The lowest average was a 3.7 indicating staff members would like to have more input in planning for the future. Strategies will be developed to provide all stakeholders with an opportunity to present their ideas through EESAC meetings, department meetings, PTSA/Parent council meetings and faculty meetings. Additional objectives will be addressed for the 2006-2007 school year in the areas of parental involvement, discipline and safety, technology, health and fitness and the arts.

Stakeholder Engagement:

Based on the OPI, customer satisfaction and market focus was the highest ranking category averaging a 4.1. Evidence of this being an excellent indicator for what is happening at Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School, according to the results of the School Climate Survey for 2005-2006. Faculty and staff agreed there is positive communication between parents, students, and teachers, addressing the areas of discipline, academics and parental participation. All schools site personnel are available to assist parents with any and all concerns regarding their child's education and future progress. Emphasis will placed on increasing parental involvement and addressing concerns as they arise.

Faculty & Staff:

Based on data from the OPI, Human Resources ranked a 4.0 out of a possible five points indicating that our staff members utilize a team approach in the planning of school objectives and goals. Assistance is provided to new teachers through Professional Growth Teams consisting of peer teachers and administrators. Additionally, the district has provided a curriculum support specialist for new teachers.

Newly created professional learning communities provide the entire faculty with an opportunity to share new and innovative ideas that will enhance educational excellence and a vehicle for implementation.

Data/Information/Knowledge Management:

Data obtained from the OPI survey indicates that this was the highest area of satisfaction for faculty and staff members. All statements within this component averaged at least 4.3 out of a five score indicating that the faculty and staff utilize data to monitor student progress. This information enables monitoring, reflection, and remediation of school improvement objectives.

Education Design:

Utilizing data obtained from the OPI survey indicated a ranking of 3.9 out of five. Based on these results, Arthur & Polly Mays will continue to incorporate the Plan Do Study Act (PDSA) cycle. The PDSA model is a four step process that is a systematic process for making improvements in services.

Performance Results:

Overall results of the O.P.I. indicate that the faculty and staff of Arthur & Polly Mays are moving in a positive direction. Results of the O.P.I. showed that the faculty and staff were concerned with process management and strategic planning, both ranking 3.9 out of five points. Data revealed that additional efforts must be initiated by the leadership team to address these concerns. Efforts to improve the previously mentioned categories have been addressed in the formulation of the 2006-2007 School Improvement Plan.

• Highly Qualified, Certified Administrators:

Mr. Kenneth S. Cooper, Principal

Mr. Kenneth S. Cooper has thirty-two years of experience as a professional educator and seventeen years as a school site principal. Mr. Cooper began his career with Miami-Dade County Public Schools as a social studies teacher and department chairperson at Citrus Grove Middle School. Mr. Cooper also taught social studies at Southwood Middle School. In July 1983, Mr. Cooper was appointed to an assistant principalship at Southwood Middle School. During the following six years, Mr. Cooper had numerous responsibilities which included middle school teaming, community liaison, security and school safety, capital improvement projects, facilities management, personnel, budget, attendance, and standardized testing.

In August 1989, through leadership experiences in the District's Executive Training Program, Mr. Cooper became involved in elementary education with an assignment at William Jennings Bryan Elementary School. During that year, Mr. Cooper chaired the Child Study Team. Other accomplishments included cadre support under the school based Shared Decision Making Model and PTA involvement to increase parental involvement. In January 1990, Mr. Cooper was appointed principal at Jan Mann Opportunity School. He restructured the instructional program and began utilizing technology to enhance literacy skills. In June 1992, Mr. Cooper was asked to operate a school for students with disabilities. Over a four year period, Robert Renick Educational Center received many accolades, awards, and accomplishments. Mr. Cooper established an elective band program for emotionally handicapped and severely emotionally disturbed students. Through structure and consistency in the curriculum, students made positive strides in music, art, and academics. A community of learners included therapists, students, parents, teachers, and community partners. Mr. Cooper has written for the newspaper and other professional magazines. Mr. Cooper was assigned to Pine Villa Elementary School in June 1996. Through his leadership, the school's negative budget was improved. The following year, Mr. Cooper moved to Mays Middle Community School. His leadership has added great strength to this historic school site.

Mr. Cooper received a Bachelor of Science degree in Criminal Justice Administration and Masters of Science degree in Adult Education Administration and Supervision. He has postgraduate work in social studies, education administration and supervision, and educational leadership. Mr. Cooper is certified in Political Science 7-12 and holds a level 1 principal certificate from the State of Florida. His annual evaluations over the past sixteen years are distinguished. Mr. Cooper is a member of Dade Association of School Administrators.

Dr. Tranthem is an integral part of the administrative team at Arthur & Polly Mays Middle School by ensuring both students and parents have an opportunity to continue their education beyond the school day. He holds certification in English, Spanish and Administrative Supervision. Dr. Tranthem's dedication and commitment to the Gould's community ensure that everyone has the opportunity to succeed. Dr. Tranthem's involvement in the Goulds Coalition keeps the community interests at the forefront of all stakeholders' agendas.

• Teacher Mentoring:

All teachers new to the profession and/or school system will be involved in the New Teacher Orientation provided by the District. In addition, a Professional Growth Team (PGT) will be developed to assist new teachers with effective classroom management strategies. Veteran teachers will be paired with newly assigned and beginning teachers as mentors to provide assistance with methodology and pedagogy.

Quality professional development workshops on research-based instructional strategies will be conducted during professional planning time and early release days for teachers to help elevate the quality of instruction.

Weekly Wednesday morning meetings will be required for the PGT teachers to discuss and share best practices and instructional delivery techniques as well as host training sessions. Our reading coach will model lessons in various subjects which will enhance the competencies of teachers. Additionally, a district curriculum support specialist has been assigned to work with new teachers at least once a week at the school site.

• School Advisory Council:

The Educational Excellence School Advisory Council (EESAC) assisted in the preparation of the School Improvement Plan relative to the following areas:

Budget - The EESAC recommended, reviewed and participated in the development of the budget for the 2006- 2007 school year.

Staffing - The EESAC recommended that school volunteers should be utilized throughout the school.

Training - The EESAC recognizes its role in supporting the development for professional growth regarding school improvement goals and initiatives and in promoting a collegial climate as enabling tools for continuous school improvement.

Technology - The EESAC recognizes the need for technology to be updated. They also recommended teachers pursue grant opportunities involving technology.

Student support services - The EESAC recommends that the Title I community involvement specialist continues to provide assistance to parents in need. In addition, EESAC recommends that the student services department provide more individualized counseling.

Instructional materials - The EESAC supports continued efforts to focus school instructional materials on SIP goals and state/district standards.

Benchmarkings - The EESAC will review student performance data as a baseline for assessing progress throughout the year.

• Extended Learning Opportunities

All students are provided an opportunity to participate in a variety of extended learning opportunities. Mays Middle also offers after school FCAT tutoring in mathematics, reading, science and writing. Students are also encouraged to attend Saturday school to work on Riverdeep and FCAT Explorer. Additional tutoring will be provided by supplemental education providers.

Additionally, our community school provides students with an opportunity to attend tutoring and enrichment activities throughout the week.

• School Wide Improvement Model

Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School will continue to incorporate the Plan Do Study Act (PDSA) cycle. The PDSA model is a four-step process that is a systematic process for making improvements in services.

The cycle will include: Plan - for changes to bring about improvement;

Do - changes on a small scale first to try them;

Study - to see if changes are working; and

Act - to get the greatest benefit from changes.

The Gates MacGinitie was administered to all sixth, seventh and eighth graders (August 2006).

After analyzing our school data, all students performing at a level 1 or 2 on the FCAT Reading Test will be provided intensive reading instruction inclusive of fluency, comprehension, vocabulary, phonemic awareness and phonics.

Students scoring three or above on the FCAT will receive instruction to build fluency, comprehension, test-taking strategies, higher order questioning, extensive research and writing lessons.

Instructional focus activities which highlight specific benchmarks in reading, mathematics and science were developed into a calendar which was distributed to all instructional staff at the beginning of the school year. This practice allows students and teachers to be on one accord, constantly reinforcing the benchmarks and providing direct instruction.

Emphasis on targeted skills will be implemented school-wide on a weekly basis. Assessments will provide data for analysis of best practices and teaching methods. Accelerated Reader will be utilized with all students through first period, language arts and reading classes.

All students will be able to read on or above grade level.

Needs Assessment

Mays Middle School's diverse population indicates a strong need for intensive instruction in reading. The following subgroups scored below FCAT achievement level three:

- 70 percent African American,
- 61 percent Hispanic,
- 66 percent of Economically Disadvantaged and
- 93 percent of students with disabilities.

Scores on the 2006 FCAT Reading Test indicate that 39 percent of students in grade six have scored at or above FCAT achievement level 3; this was an 18 point increase from scores on the 2005 administration. The 2006 disaggregated data by strands, reflects sixth grade students had the greatest weakness in words and phrases.

Scores on the 2006 FCAT Reading Test indicated that 37 percent of the students in grade seven have scored at or above FCAT achievement level 3; this was an eight point increase from scores on the 2005 administration. The 2006 disaggregated data by strands, reflects seventh grade students had the greatest weakness in main idea and purpose.

Scores on the 2006 FCAT Reading Test indicated that 27 percent of students in grade eight scored at or above FCAT achievement level 3; this was a five point increase from scores on the 2005 administration. The 2006 disaggregated data by strands, reflects eighth grade students had the greatest weakness in the reference and research strand.

Research-Based Programs

The primary research-based program being utilized at Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School is the Bridges to Literature reading series published by McDougal Littell for sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Additional resources such as Soar to Success, Impact and Read 180 are used.

Professional Development

The reading coach will provide inservice to teachers throughout the year on topics including vocabulary, comprehension, and fluency. New teachers will be trained utilizing CRISS strategies. District curriculum support personnel will provide inservice in Recipricol Reading Techniques. Reading coaches will be trained to use MAZES and Snapshot. Additionally, inservices will be presented by District curriculum support personnel on the use of CRISS strategies, Differentiated Instruction and curriculum mapping. Inclusion workshops for ESE/inclusion teachers will provided by District personnel on how to incorporate reading strategies in a co-teaching environment.

Evaluation

Every student will be administered the Gates MacGinitie as pre and post tests. Additionally, timed reading tests will be utilized along with the Bridges to Literature Reading Series testing, Mazes reports, District Interim Assessments and the 2007 FCAT Reading Test.

GOAL 2 STATEMENT:

All students will be able to function on or above grade level in mathematics.

Needs Assessment

An assessment of data reveals that 74 percent of the students in grade six, 70 percent of the students in grade seven, and 58 percent of the students in grade eight are still testing below grade level on the FCAT Mathematics Test.

Scores on the 2006 FCAT Mathematics Test indicate that 26 percent of students in grade six have scored at or above FCAT Achievement Level 3; an increase of eight percent from scores on the 2005 administration. The 2006 disaggregated data by strand, reflects sixth grade students had the greatest weakness in Data Analysis and Algebraic Thinking scoring 25 percent correct in both.

Scores on the 2006 FCAT Mathematics Test indicate that 30 percent of students in grade seven have scored at or above FCAT Achievement Level 3; an increase of three percent from scores on the 2005 administration. The 2006 disaggregated data by strands, reflects seventh grade students had the greatest weakness in Data Analysis, Measurement and Algebraic Thinking scoring 33 percent correct in all three areas.

Scores on the 2006 FCAT Mathematics Test indicate that 42 percent of students in grade eight scored at or above FCAT Achievement Level 3; an increase of four percent from scores on the 2005 administration. The 2006 disaggregated data by strands, reflects eighth grade students had the greatest weakness in Measurement and Geometry.

Specifically, the majority of level 1 and 2 students in grades six through eight with low test scores are 71 percent African American, 61 percent Hispanic, 67 percent Economically Disadvantaged and 92 percent students with disabilities. These students first need basic mathematics skills in order to form a solid foundation. Implementation of listed strategies will assist in the increase of the students' test scores.

Research-Based Programs

The primary researched-based program being utilized at Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School is the Prentice Hall mathematics series for sixth, seventh, and eighth graders who scored three or above on the 2006 FCAT. All level 1 and 2 students are utilizing Algebraic Thinking.

Riverdeep, a computerized mathematics program, which will enhance mathematics literacy skills, will be utilized to improve student achievement.

Professional Development

Assistance will be provided by departmental chairpersons and District support personnel for teacher development three times a week starting August 2006 during departmental meetings and Professional Growth Team (PGT) meetings. Focus will be placed on areas of testing development, teaching strategies and technology integration.

Teachers will be provided with opportunities to attend District workshops addressing mathematics topics including the use of manipulatives, FCAT Explorer and Riverdeep. Additionally, teachers will be provided training utilizing "Algebraic Thinking" strategies.

Inservice training for ESE/inclusion teachers will be provided addressing teaching mathematics in a co-teaching environment.

Needs Assessment

Based on 2006 FCAT, 83 percent of students met high standards in writing. Although writing scores remain consistent with 2005 FCAT scores, additional emphasis must be placed on writing to ensure students attain the necessary skills needed to be successful in future academic areas.

Results of 2006 FCAT indicate that eighth grade students find expository writing to be more of a challenge than persuasive writing. Therefore, school wide writing prompts need to address this weakness.

Research-Based Programs

The primary research-based program being utilized at Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School is the Glencoe science series for sixth, seventh, and eighth grades.

Additionally, the use of Universal Design for Learning / Assertive Technology Riverdeep will be utilized to enhance student performance.

Professional Development

Professional development for science teachers will be provided through a number of resources. Weekly department meetings will provide opportunity for content teachers to discuss best practices and other strategies that will elevate student achievement on the FCAT Science Test. Additionally, the reading coach will offer inservices, modeling, and coaching to science teachers on the most effective ways to incorporate reading strategies, including CRISS, Differentiated Instruction and curriculum mapping into their lessons.

Selected teachers are involved in vertical team training with Miami Southridge Senior High School.

Teachers will be trained on the scientific method and completing a science project.

Selected teachers will be trained in Technology For All Students (TFAST), integration of math, science and technology applications.

Evaluation

All student assessments will be monitored through student folders as well as through pre and post tests that will be collected. All science teachers will access Web Student Performance Indications (WSPI) to determine areas of strength and weakness in reading and mathematics, fundamental to science comprehension. Samples of student writing will be maintained throughout the nine-week period to analyze and evaluate the process of synthesizing science information. The 2007 FCAT will be utilized to determine growth and for the formulation of a needs assessment for the 2007-2008 school year.

GOAL 5 STATEMENT:

The school will provide an environment that allows parents and educators to work collaboratively to foster academic excellence.

Needs Assessment

An analysis of data compiled from Title I rosters, EESAC rosters, magnet parent council rosters, and volunteer logs indicated that parental involvement needs to be addressed at Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School for the 2006 – 2007 school year. Additional effort must be made to recruit parents for the PTSA, EESAC and magnet parent council. Baseline data established during the 2005-2006 school year showed little improvement.

Measurable Objective

During the 2006-2007 school year, parental involvement will increase by ten percent as compared to 2005-2006 as evidenced by attendance records from EESAC rosters, Title I rosters, magnet parent council rosters, volunteer logs and membership in the PTSA.

<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>	<input type="checkbox"/>

GOAL 6 STATEMENT:

The school will provide programs and practices that facilitate a safe and disciplined environment for students.

Needs Assessment

Suspension data compiled from the 2005–2006 student case management system indicated a need for alternative strategies to be implemented for the 2006–2007 school year to decrease the number of outdoor suspensions (343) by 10 percent.

Outdoor suspension, indoor suspension, and work detail have been utilized as disciplinary actions for students not complying with MDCPS Student Code of Conduct. Additional effort must be made to prevent suspensions. Alternative strategies will be implemented such as Peer Mediation, District inservices for students, teachers and parents dealing with bullying, stress management and classroom management.

Measurable Objective

Given the school-wide initiative to foster an atmosphere of discipline and safety the school's overall outdoor suspension rate will decrease by five percent for the 2006-2007 school year when comparing data from MDCPS suspension report for 2005-2006 to the 2006-2007.

GOAL 7 STATEMENT:

Arthur & Polly Mays Middle will upgrade technologic components to meet the academic needs of students and teachers.

Needs Assessment

Results of the 2006 School Technology Refresh Survey indicated that emphasis must be placed on updating technology. Classroom and lab computers are out dated. Many are not capable of running web based programs. Wiring is substandard for current needs and internet access speed.

Measurable Objective

Given the school-wide initiative of educational technology, emphasis will be placed on upgrading the wiring, computers, hardware and software at the school site.

GOAL 8 STATEMENT:

Overall student health and fitness at Arthur & Polly Mays Middle Community School will align with District goals.

Needs Assessment

National statistics indicate that 30% of today’s teenagers are overweight. It is estimated that the average teenager spends four hours daily in sedentary occupations such as watching television, playing video games and surfing the internet as compared to 15 minutes daily in physical activities.

Results from the 2005-2006 administration of the MDCPS fitness test indicated that 49 percent of the students in grade six through eight did achieve minimal Fitnessgram requirements.

Measurable Objective

Given instruction based on the Sunshine State Standards students in grades six through eight will improve their physical fitness as evidenced by a three percent increase on the 2007 administration of the Miami-Dade County Public Schools Fitnessgram; as compared to data from the 2005–2006 MDCPS Fitnessgram.

GOAL 9 STATEMENT:

Increase student enrollment and participation in the arts.

Needs Assessment

Based on magnet enrollment from the 2005–2006 school year, data reveals a two percent decrease in the number of students attending the magnet program from 35 percent to 33 percent. Other magnet programs and charter schools have recruited magnet candidates, negatively impacting enrollment at Arthur & Polly Mays Middle.

Additional strategies must be implemented to increase the number of students within the magnet program.

Measurable Objective

Given the need to include the arts in academic areas, magnet enrollment in the visual and performing arts will increase by 10 percent when comparing enrollment data from the 2005-2006 school year to the 2006-2007 school year.

Budget:

The EESAC recommended, reviewed and participated in the development of the budget for the 2006-2007 school year.

Training:

The EESAC recognizes its role in supporting the development for professional growth regarding school improvement goals and initiatives and in promoting a collegial climate as enabling tools for continuous school improvement.

Instructional Materials:

The EESAC supports continued efforts to focus school instructional materials on SIP goals and state/district standards.

Technology:

The EESAC recognizes the need for technology to be updated. They also recommended teachers pursue grant opportunities involving technology.

Staffing:

The EESAC recommended that school volunteers should be utilized throughout the school.

Student Support Services:

The EESAC recommends that the Title I community involvement specialist continues to provide assistance to parents in need. In addition, EESAC recommends that the student services department provide more individualized counseling.

Other Matters of Resource Allocation:

The EESAC recommended, reviewed, and participated in the allocation of funding for various resources used by the school.

Benchmarking:

The EESAC will review student performance data as a baseline for assessing progress throughout the year.

School Safety & Discipline:

The EESAC committee was instrumental in disseminating information on the school-wide uniform policy to parents and assisted in identifying parents that needed support in purchasing uniforms.
